Biography of Alva F. Grogg, pages 762/763. History of DeKalb County, Indiana; B. F. Bowen & Company, Inc., Indianapolis, 1914.

Alva F. Grogg

One of the best known and most enterprising of the young agriculturists of DeKalb county, Indiana, is Alva F. Grogg, now in the very prime of life an usefulness, and his influence as an honorable, upright citizen is productive of much good upon all with whom he comes in contact. His past success give assurance of something yet to come, and he is evidently destined to continue a potent factor for substantial good for many years to come.

Alva F. Grogg is a native son of the old Hoosier state and of the county in which he now resides, his birth having occurred on his father's old homestead, on July 3, 1882. His parents were Peter H. and Mary J. (Baker) Grogg, the former a native of DeKalb county, Indiana and the latter of Stark county, Ohio. The Grogg family is numbered among the earliest settlers in DeKalb county and bore their part in the great task which presented itself in the settlement, clearing and opening up of new country to civilization. To Peter and Mary J. Grogg were born ten children, namely: Oscar, of Keyser township, this county; Wilson, of Keyser township; Marion and Lettie are deceased; Alva F., the subject of this sketch, is next in order of birth; Mrs. Dora Draper, of Richland township, this county; Elmer, who operates a farm in Union township, this county; Mrs. Lottie Close, of Grant township; Gladys and Mabel remain at home with their parents.

Alva F. Grogg was reared under the parental roof and secured a good, practical education in the common schools. Reared to the life of a farmer, he early showed his wisdom in maintaining his connection with that basic industry and has been for many years numbered among the substantial and successful farmers of the county. His ability and high character were recognized when, in June, 1912, Mr. Grogg was appointed superintendent of the county farm, assuming the duties of his office on the 1st of September following. He has under his direction three hundred and twenty acres of land, in the handling of which he has shown good judgement and wise discrimination, managing the property to the entire satisfaction of the county officials, to whom he is responsible.

On April 29, 1905, Alva F. Grogg was united in marriage with Ada R. Smurr, the daughter of William and Sarah (Morr) Smurr, both of whom were natives of DeKalb county. To Mr. and Mrs. Grogg were born two children, Edward W. and Edgar P., twins, whose birth occurred on March 14, 1909. Politically, Mr. Grogg gives his support to the Republican party, though he has been too busy a man to have entertained any aspirations for office holding, his present position having come to him practically unsought at the earnest solicitation of those who felt that he was the right man for the place. He is not only a progressive farmer, but is considered as ranking among the most enterprising of his contemporaries, interested in all that benefits the community and alive to the welfare of his fellowmen. He has lived an honorable, upright life and enjoys the confidence and esteem of all who know him. He and his wife are members of the Lutheran church.

Biography of Frank Hogue, pages 556/557/558. History of DeKalb County, Indiana; B. F. Bowen & Company, Inc., Indianapolis, 1914.

Frank Hogue

It is always pleasant and profitable to contemplate the career of a man who has made a success of life and won the honor and respect of his fellow citizens. Such is the record of the well-known gentleman whose name appears at the head of this paragraph, then whom a more whole-souled or popular man it would be hard to find in the city where he has resided during the major portion of his life. Steady persistence, stern integrity and excellent judgement have been the elements which have contributed to his success, and because of this success and his high personal character he is deserving of the high position which he holds in the esteem of all who know him. Frank Hogue, who for a number of years has been the efficient lumber buyer for Hoffman Brothers Company, of Fort Wayne, is a native son of DeKalb county, having first seen the light of day in Butler township on June 11, 1852. He is the son of Henry and Effie (King) Hogue, the former of whom died on August 5, 1872. Henry Hogue was the son of George and Lydia (Wilder) Hogue, and was born in Canandaigua, New York, on March 5, 1818. When about twenty years old he came to DeKalb county, Indiana, his mother having died a short time before that, and here he was employed in sawmills, work to which he had been accustomed in his native state. He bought a farm in Butler township and there made his permanent home, his father also spending his last years there. Carrying on the dual occupations of farming and lumbering, Henry Hogue was a very busy man, and he enjoyed the respect and confidence of all who knew him. He was a Republican in politics, though with no aspirations, for public office. He married Effie King, who was born in Pennsylvania on November, 26, 1828, and who is till, at the advanced age of eighty-eight years, a well-preserved woman, retaining her mental and physical faculties to a remarkable degree. She is the daughter of George and Mary Jane (Phillips) King, and she was brought to DeKalb county on October 4, 1835. Her father was killed when she was but three days old, and she was reared by her mother until seven years old, after which time she was reared in the family of George DeLong, with whom she came to Indiana, the family locating in Butler township, DeKalb county. Their long and tiresome journey was made in a wagon, drawn by two yoke of oxen, who pulled them from Dayton, Ohio. They had come from Pennsylvania down the Ohio river to Cincinnati, and thence by canal to Dayton. It took them six weeks to make the trip from Dayton, camping out at night and letting the oxen graze. They came by way of Fort Wayne, thence through Hometown, which then consisted of but three or four houses. But few roads had been constructed, and those few very poorly made, while most of the streams had to be forded. On approaching their land in Butler township, none of which had been cleared, they were compelled to cut the dense undergrowth and many trees in order to get their wagon through to the site of their future home. Mr. DeLong went energetically to work to clear a spot for a home. They first lived in a tent made of carpet. But soon a log cabin was erected, in which the family, were comfortably housed. Here Mr. DeLong acquired ownership of three hundred and fifty acres of land. A few years later he sold out and moved to Allen county. Mr. and Mrs. Hogue had been married just prior to that event and they remained on the farm, Mr. Hogue being employed to run the saw-mill for the new owner. They then moved to the farm adjoining on the north, which Mr. Hogue had bought, and there he spent the remainder of his life. To him and his wife were born ten children, namely: George Henry, Lydia A., Frank, Effie, Theron, Frederick, Perry, James, Florence and Mary, the latter dying at the age of three months. Of these children, only three are Interesting! Wonder what George DeLong they are talking about. They were living in Ohio - not passing thru & had come from VA now living, namely Frank, the immediate subject of this sketch; Lydia of Auburn, Florence, the wife of William Hoff, of Selma, California. The mother of these children now makes her home with her son Frank. Frank Hogue was reared on the home farm in Butler township and secured his education in the common schools. In 1873 he went West, where he remained three years, and then, in 1876, he returned to the home farm, to the operation of which he gave his attention for a time. He then accepted a position with Hoffman Brothers, of Fort Wayne, extensive limber dealers and saw-mill men, and he has been connected with that company ever since. For thirty-five years he has been the timber buyer for this well-known firm, his duties requiring him to travel over practically the entire country. He has earned the reputation as one of the best judges of timber in the country and his services are held high in value by the firm with which he is connected. Mr. Hogue has continued to reside in Auburn, and has a beautiful home at the corner of Fifth and Main streets, which he built in 1909. In 1884 Mr. Hogue married Allie Rainsburg, of Pleasant Lake, Indiana, the daughter of Frederick Rainsburg, of Hudson, Indiana. Mrs. Hogue died in 1891, and in 1898 Mr. Hogue married Carrie Caswell, of Fremont, this state, to which union was born a daughter, Frances. They are well known throughout this community, and their friends are in number as their acquaintances.

Biography of Reuben Lockwood, pages 546/547/548/549.
History of DeKalb County, Indiana; B. F. Bowen & Company,
Inc., Indianapolis, 1914.

High lights

Few men of DeKalb county were as widely and favorably known as the late Reuben Lockwood, of Auburn, Indiana. He was one of the strong and influential citizens whose lives have become an essential part of the history of this section of the state, and for years his name was synonymous with all that constituted honorable and upright manhood. Tireless energy, keen perception and honesty of purpose, combined with everyday common sense, were among his chief characteristics and, while advancing individual success, he also largely promoted the moral and material welfare of his community. Reuben Lockwood, who for many years was an honored resident of DeKalb county, was born in Jackson township, this county, on January 20, 1841, and died at his home at Auburn on March 30, 1912. He was a son of Alonzo and Rosamond (Phelps) Lockwood, who were numbered among the sturdy pioneers of this section of the country. Alonzo Lockwood, who was a pioneer in the southern part of DeKalb county, was born in 1814 in Vermont, the son of Levi Lockwood and wife. In young manhood he left his native state and located in Licking county, Ohio, where he married Rosamond Phelps, a native of Granville, that county. In 1834 he removed to Allen county, Indiana, and two years later came to DeKalb county, where Mr. Lockwood entered one hundred and sixty acres of land four miles southwest of Auburn, and there established their permanent home. He was a poor man when he came to this county, the trip being made up the St. Joe river and Cedar creek in a canoe which bore all their worldly effects. However, he was a hard worker, and was determined and ambitious to succeed in his new home. By dint of the most insistent labor and rigid economy, and by the exclusion of every expensive habit, he was enabled to buy out other settlers who were discouraged and desired to move elsewhere. In this way he was enabled to accumulate thirty-six hundred acres of land in different places, twelve hundred acres being in one tract adjoining his first farm. About twelve hundred acres were located near Paulding, Defiance county, Ohio, and some in Michigan, but the greater part of this holdings were in DeKalb county. He engaged very extensively in the buying and selling of live stock, much of which he also raised on his own farms, which he sold at considerable profit, most of his transactions being in horses and cattle. He was eminently successful in every transaction in which he engaged, his deals being characterized by shrewdness and sagacity of a high order, and in 1866 he was enabled to retire from business pursuits and removed to Auburn, where he spent the remainder of his days. His death occurred on July 4, 1886, at the age of seventy-two years, while in Defiance county, Ohio, his death being immediately due to a fall from a cart. He was survived a number of years by his widow, who died in Auburn in 1898. They were the parents of seven children, namely: Cyrus, who died in 1854, at the age of nineteen years; Reuben; Celia, who died about 1876, at New Elm, Minnesota, was the wife of George Coleman; Irvin, who spent his entire life in Richland township, this county, died in 1891; Lyman was a farmer and resided in Auburn, this county; Philo J., now deceased, lived in Washington D. C. He was a noted pension attorney; Eunice is the widow of Benjamin Zigler and lives in Auburn; Cornelia, the widow of Davis E. Caruth, also lives in Auburn. Reuben Lockwood was reared on his father's farm, in the operation of which he took an active part, and in the meantime secured his education in the common schools of the neighborhood. On November 22, 1861, he enlisted as a private in Company K, Forty-fourth Regiment, Indiana Volunteer Infantry, with which he went to the front, but the ensuing winter was an unfortunate one for the entire command, as all but three or four of the regiment were either very ill or in poor health, especially at the time of the battle of Shiloh, but in which nearly all took an active part despite their poor condition. Mr. Lockwood's health became so precarious that he was mustered out soon afterwards because of physical disability. Upon his return to peaceable pursuits, Mr. Lockwood became a salesman, which vocation he followed in various lines for many years, traveling over a large portion of the country. In 1887 he helped to organize the Monitor Manufacturing Company, of which he was chosen vice-president. They erected a factory northeast of Auburn Junction, this county, where they engaged extensively in the manufacture of wind mills, potato crate, Fargo harrows and also ran a planing mill. The business was continued until 1897, when it was discontinued. Besides the business interest mentioned, Mr. Lockwood owned about six hundred of farm land, located in Ohio, Michigan and this county, to which he gave his attention and in the operation of which he was very successful. In the business affairs of the community he was prominent figure and contributed much to the prosperity and upbuilding of the community in which he lived. He was a man of broad sympathies and good-hearted in his attitude toward others, being well liked personally by all who came in contact with him. On December 22, 1892, Mr. Lockwood was married to Mrs. Sarah Clarke Carr, of Detroit, whom he met in that city while exhibiting the products of his factory. Mrs. Carr was born four miles south of Dexter, in Washtenaw county, Michigan, and is the daughter of Dr. Henry and Mary (Pritchard) Clarke, both of whom were natives of London, England. Dr. Henry Clarke was a man of splendid education, possessing several diplomas, and spoke fluently seven different languages. He and his wife were married in London, and they afterwards came to Washtenaw county, Michigan, where the Doctor was engaged in the practice of his profession until seventy-eight years old. He had very early in life taken an interest in the science of anatomy, having begun dissecting at the early age of fifteen years. He became a surgeon of note and had a large practice all over Washtenaw county, where he was commonly known as the "old English doctor." Aristocratic in his manner of life, he was nevertheless very kind to the poor and never charged for his medical services when the recipient was not able to pay. Their daughter Sarah A., was married in 1878 to George Washington Carr, of Bellville, Wayne county, Michigan, and two or three years later they moved to Detroit, where Mr. Carr was employed as a railroad fireman. Mr. Carr, who was born February 18, 1853, at Pinckney, Michigan, was the son of Malcolm and Nancy (Richmond) Carr, and his death occurred on March 17, 1888. To Mr. and Mrs. Carr were born two children: Lizzie G., who died in infancy, and George Freeman, who was born September 20, 1886. Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood moved to Auburn in September, 1893, and Mr. Lockwood formally adopted his wife's son, George, who dropped his middle name of Freeman, being known now as George Carr Lockwood. On April 23, 1910, he married Hulda Gessner, of Monroe, Michigan, daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth (Weisbeck) Gessner. To them were born a son, Reuben G., on January 21, 1911. George C. Lockwood is a tester at the Auburn automobile factory. Reuben Lockwood was for many years an honored and appreciative member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, taking an active interest in the workings of the order. He was a member of the pioneer band which accomplished also much in the early development of this section of the state, and as a defender of his country in the hour of her trial he proved himself a patriot, and because of these characteristics he is entitled to specific mention in the annals of DeKalb county.

Biography of John J. Oberlin, pages 418/419/420. History of DeKalb County, Indiana; B. F. Bowen & Company, Inc., Indianapolis, 1914.

An enumeration of those men of the present generation who have won honor and public recognition for themselves and at the same time have honored the locality to which they belong would be incomplete were there failure to make mention of the one whose name forms the caption of this sketch. During a period of many years he sustained a very enviable reputation in educational circles, and today is giving thoughtful and intelligent direction to the financial affairs of DeKalb county, being the present county treasurer. John J. Oberlin is a native of the old Buckeye state, having been born in Summit county, Ohio, on May 4, 1847, and is the son of Abraham, Jr., and Mary (Stewart) Oberlin, both of whom were natives of Lancaster county, Pennsylvania. The subject's paternal grandfather also bore the name of Abraham. John J. Oberlin was reared on the paternal farmstead in Ohio, and received his educational training in the common schools of the neighborhood. His vacation periods being spent in assisting his father on the home farm. He finished his education in the high school at Manchester, Ohio, and at the age of eighteen years began teaching school. He was eminently successful in this calling, which he followed for twenty-two terms. In 1872 Mr. Oberlin came to DeKalb county, Indiana, locating near Butler, and during the following four years taught school there. He then moved to Marshall county, this state, where he resided for seven years, teaching school during six years of that time. While carrying on his educational work he had also engaged in farming, at which calling he was equally successful. Returning to DeKalb county Mr. Oberlin located on a farm south of Butler, to the operation of which he devoted his attention until 1893, when he was appointed postmaster of Butler, holding this position four years to the entire satisfaction of the government and the patrons of the office; then for a year he was on the road as a traveling salesman, after which he engaged in the general mercantile business at Butler. In 1903 he was nominated for county commissioner by the Democratic party and was elected, holding the office three years. His services were entirely satisfactory and he was re-nominated for the position, but owing to the Republican landslide of that year he went down to defeat with the rest of the ticket. However, as evidence of this popularity it may be noted that while Roosevelt carried the county by six hundred and twenty-five plurality, Mr. Oberlin was defeated by only ninety-seven votes. Many Republican friends of his assured him afterwards that had they thought there was any chance for his defeat, they would have voted for him. In the fall of 1910 Mr. Oberlin was the successful candidate of his party for county treasurer, and in 1912 was re-elected by the largest majority of any candidate on the ticket, being the present incumbent of that office. His sterling integrity, sound business judgment and wise discrimination in the administration of the county's finances have commended him to the confidence and respect of all the citizen regardless of political lines. Politically, Mr. Oberlin is a staunch supporter of the Democratic party and has for a number of years taken an active part in the campaigns, his counsel and sound judgment being considered invaluable by his party colleagues. Religiously, he and his wife are members of the United Brethren church, to which they are liberal contributors. In 1869 John J. Oberlin was married to Catherine Beerer, a native of Summit county, Ohio, and a daughter of George and Julia N. Beerer. To Mr. and Mrs. Oberlin have been born eight children, all living, namely: Minnie, wife of C. W. Beard, of Butler; Lemuel, who is a billiard ball turner in Cincinnati, Ohio, married Blanche Jewell, and they have two children, Clark and Gale; Charles, a farmer living at Butler; Jesse, who is in his father's store at Butler, married Belle Newton, and they have two daughters, Lucile and Catherine; Clyde B., also in the store at Butler, married Luella Farley, and they have one daughter, Mildred; Lloyd who is employed as a molder in the plant of the Butler Company at Butler, married Goldie Hartman, and they have two sons, Lindley and Burton; Grace Viola is at home with her parents; Earl Leroy is his father's assistant in the county treasurer's office. In Mr. Oberlin's record there has been much that is commendable and his character forcibly illustrates what a life of energy can accomplish when plans are wisely laid and actions are governed by right principles and high ideals. In his business career as well as his private life no word of suspicion has ever been breathed against him. Successful in business, faithful in the performance of public duty, respected in social life, and as a neighbor discharging his duties as becomes a liberal minded, intelligent citizen, he has won and retains the sincerest regard of all who know him.

Good buildings have been added by Mr. Pepple and his home is a model among the good homes of this community. Along one side of his possessions runs an interurban line, which not only adds to the value of his holding, but is a great convenience. The Republican party claims Mr. Pepple's suffrage.

Biography of Price Donner West, pages 408/409/410/411/412.
History of DeKalb County, Indiana; B. F. Bowen & Company,
Inc., Indianapolis, 1914.

Among the well known citizens of northern Indiana who have finished their labors and gone to their reward, the name of Price Donner West, who was one of the prominent business men and highly esteemed citizens of Auburn, is deserving of special notice. He was one of those sterling citizens whose labors and self-sacrifice made possible the advanced state of civilization and enlightenment for which this section of the Hoosier state has long been noted. He was a benefactor in the truest sense of the term. His career was fraught with inestimable blessings to the world, for he was a man who did not believe in living to himself alone, but desired to help those whom fortune favored less on the highway of life, consequently his memory will long be revered by a wide circle of friends and acquaintances in DeKalb county or wherever he was known. Price Donner West, son of Fisher Curtis Price, was born in Perry township, Allen county, Indiana, December 27, 1861. When about eight years old he went with his parents to Post Mitchell, Noble county, Indiana, where the family lived for three years. At the end of that time the family returned to the old home in Allen county. Price, when a boy, attended the district schools. Thirsting for knowledge and assisted in his ambition by his mother, who was an educated woman, young West entered the Methodist Episcopal College, then located in Fort Wayne. He was graduated from this, his mother's alma mater, in 1880. He entered DePauw University, and, largely through his own labor during summer vacations, paid his own way through that institution, from which he took his diploma in 1885. At this time his mind turned to the law and he entered the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor to prepare himself for the practice of his chosen profession. He was graduated from the institution, and, in 1889, he was admitted as a member to the bar of DeKalb county, Indiana. In 1892 he formed a partnership with Judge Hartman. After this dissolution of this partnership Mr. West was alone for awhile practicing law and lending money. From this grew his desire to go into a banking business, and early in 1900 he formed a partnership with Charles M. Brown, and the law firm of Brown & West continued to lend money, in 1903 organized the Savings, Loan and Trust Company. On the 1st of January, 1908, Mr. West bought the interest of Mr. Brown and the partnership was dissolved. Mr. West was president of the Savings, Loan and Trust Company from its organization until his death. At all time Mr. West's business transactions, both in law practice and in his trust company, were marked by the strictest integrity. In 1902 Mr. West's health failed and he was obliged to seek a change of climate to recuperate. He spent several months in Florida at St. Petersburg. He returned home much improved. As a boy at home he worked beyond his strength, and during his vacation months in his college years he was up from early dawn until late at night running threshing machine and in such other farm work as would enable him to pay his way through college the following school year. His ambition always exceeded his bodily strength. Although Mr. West was the son of a rich farmer he lived and worked as a poor boy, always. His mother died in 1889, and, although a large part of the farm was her own, Price derived no benefit from it, allowing his father to retain and use it as he had in the mother's lifetime. The elder Mr. West was a man of sound business ability and his advice and judgment were eagerly sought and accepted by the son, who always gave his father his entire confidence. The father, being a stockholder and director in the Savings, Loan and Trust Company, was in a position to give his son the benefit of his many years of experience, which he did. At the time of his death, Price D. West was known far and wide, and his trust company was one of the most popular and flourishing institutions of the kind in this section of the country. He was known as the "poor man's friend." Those struggling for a foothold in the world never asked him in vain for help, and those in trouble seeking his advice were received by him with the utmost sincerity and went away satisfied that his advice was right. Mr. West as a lawyer stood high. He was admitted as a member of the bar of the supreme court of Indiana April 2, 1909. On the same date he was admitted to practice in the circuit court of the United States. In October of 1908 he organized the Garrett Savings, Loan and Trust Company in the neighboring town of Garrett. He was president of that institution until within a few months of his passing away, when he sold all of his interest therein. He was president also of the Auburn Creamery Company and of the County Association of Insurance Agents. His father being old and blind, Price took the management of his father's large farm in Allen county upon his own shoulders. He seldom took any recreation except to go to the farm for a few day's tramp through the fields and woods, every foot of which was dear to him. He was married December 27, 1895, to Mrs. Mary C. Barnes. Two sons came of this marriage, Fisher C. West, Jr., and Price Donner West, Jr. The mother of these children died March 10, 1905. On June 19, 1906, Mr. West was married to Nanne Peterson, daughter of Henry C. Peterson, of Albion, Indiana. She and the two sons, Fisher, aged ten years, and Donner, almost nine years of age, are living at the home in Auburn. Although of a retiring disposition, this man was kind and obliging to all whom he met in a business or social way, and no favor was too much trouble for him to grant. Being a man of many sorrows, he had sympathy for the sorrowing, and aided them in many ways. His life was not an easy one, but one filled with trials that usually beset the man who makes his own way. He loved his work and found great happiness in it. During the past seven years he had seemed to be growing steadily stronger so that his passing was a shock to every one, as well as a great grief. He was a valued member of the Scottish Rite at Fort Wayne, and of all the Masonic orders of Auburn. A year before his death he was worthy patron of the Order of the Easter Star, and also a member of the Knights of Pythias. He was also prominent as a member of the Commercial Club of Auburn. He was public-spirited, being intensely interested in the welfare of the community in which he lived. His Christian faith was exemplified by the many good deed of his daily life. Being a most profound Bible scholar, he implanted a love for the Bible stories in his two sons. The preparation that Christ made for his ministry was the last lesson he taught his sons. He said: "Get an education to enable you to do something in life. Get ready to do, then do it." In his home life he was ideal. His every thought might live to see Fisher and Donner started in life for themselves. He was summoned by the death angel while sitting at his desk on the evening of July 5, 1913. His passing was the same as that of two of his mother's family. In the passing of this great and good man went the last of a family of eight children. He died as the Wheelers die, of apoplexy. Sincerity was the keynote of the character of this true friend, loyal citizen and superior business man. In every instance he was true to himself and his God, leaving nothing undone to gratify every wish of those nearest and dearest to him, making his home a paradise filled with flowers of love. Henry Clay Peterson, father of Mrs. Price D. West, was born in St. Mary's township, Adams county, Indiana, October 10, 1842. In September of 1856 Mr. Peterson, with his father's family, moved to Iowa, but in October of the following year the family returned to Adams county. Mr. Peterson was educated in the common schools of Adams county and in the high school of Warsaw, Indiana. He was a classmate of Vice-President Marshall. In the Civil war he was a corporal of Henry Banta's Company I, Eighty-ninth Regiment of Indiana Volunteer Infantry. He was mustered into service August 14, 1862. He was taken prisoner at Mumfordsville, Kentucky, in the fall of 1862, and was paroled and came home with his company for a short time. He was exchanged at the time his regiment was returned, the regiment then being on post duty in Tennessee the greater part of the winter. He with his regiment was then in the Missouri campaign, the expedition up the Red river with General Banks, and Thomas's campaign at the battle of Nashville. He with his regiment participated in the capture of Spanish Fort and Fort Blakely at Mobile. In short, he was with the regiment from the time it was mustered into the service until it was mustered out. Toward the latter part of the campaign he was chief clerk at Major-General A. J. Smith's headquarters in the field. After his return from the army he taught school and read law with Judge Bobo of Adams circuit court. He was admitted to practice law at the bar in Adams circuit court at the September term of 1876. At the October election in 1866, he was elected county surveyor of Adams county and served in that office one term, he being the only man of his party ever elected to an office in Adams county. Mr. Peterson moved to Auburn in 1870 and resided here until 1889, when he moved to Kansas, and later in the same year moved to Albion, where he has resided since. While living in this city he served three terms or six years, as prosecuting attorney. He was a man who was decided in his opinions and free to express them, but you knew where he stood. He was courageous, fearless and honest; of the strictest integrity and a friend in whom you could confide. He never played false, as so many would-be friends. He always took an active interest in the affairs of life, had a wide acquaintance and was one of the most influential men of his county. He was sixty-three years of age. Mr. Peterson was first married to Sarah E. Blossom, of Decatur, Indiana, February 7, 1867. Her death occurred at Auburn, May 22, 1874. He was again joined in marriage to Amy E. McConnehey at Auburn, May 23, 1876. Mr. Peterson practiced law for a short time in Decatur, after his office as surveyor expired. He was the father of four children: Jessie A. Peterson; Blanche, wife of J. D. Hoffman, deceased; Jamie, deceased, and Mrs. West, the oldest.

Biography of James M. Weeks, pages 1023 / 1024. History of De Kalb County, Indiana. Inter-State Publishing Company, Chicago, 1885.

James M. Weeks, one of the most prominent and successful of the pioneers of De Kalb County, lives on section 32, Wilmington Township, where he settled in June, 1836. At that time the country was infested with wild animals and Indians, and the former made night hideous with their howling. The Indians were peaceable but were beggars and thieves. He entered 160 acres from the Government on the northwest quarter of section 32, and has brought it from its wild wooded state to its present valuable condition. When he first came to the county he worked by the day or job at anything he could get to do. He at one time split 1,000 rails twelve feet long for William Thomas for 50 cents a hundred, receiving his pay in two bills, and the bank which issued one of them suspended payment the next day, and $3 was all he realized for the job. He has cleared 10 acres of his land with his own hands, and has cleared nearly twice as much for others settlers. He met with serious discouragement's when a young man, but his determination and pluck have carried him through all difficulties, and he is now reaping the reward of his hard labor. Mr. Weeks was born May 26, 1814, in Rockbridge County, Va., a son of John and Margaret (McQuillen) Weeks. His father died in January, 1815, and his mother when he was ten years old. He is the youngest of four children. His brother John lives in Union Township; a sister Jane married Jacob Platter, and is now deceased; and Mary is the wife of Vinage Russell, of Miami County, Ohio. Mr. Weeks lived with an uncle till seventeen years of age, and then learned the blacksmith's trade, at which he worked five years, when he came to De Kalb County. He was married Dec. 18, 1849, to Mary Hay, a native of Germany, daughter of Valentine Hay. Their only child died at the age of ten and a half months. Mrs. Weeks died Oct. 3, 1872. She was an exemplary Christian woman, a member of the Lutheran church, and was beloved by all who knew her. Cornelius Platter, a son of Mr. Week's nephew, is living on his farm and superintends the work. He was born in Defiance County, Ohio, Sept. 12, 1861, a son of James Platter, the first white child born in the county. He was married to Eliza Davis, daughter of Isaiah Davis, and has two children---Charles and Harriet E. Mr. Weeks is therefore living with the fourth generation.

Biography of Albert N. Thrush, pages 995/996. History of DeKalb County, Indiana; B. F. Bowen & Company, Inc., Indianapolis, 1914.

There are individuals in nearly every community who, by reason of pronounced ability and force of character, rise above the heads of the masses and command the unbounded esteem of their fellow men. Characterized by perseverance and a directing spirit, two virtues that never fail, such men always make their presence felt and the vigor of their strong personality serve as a stimulus and incentive to the young and rising generation. To this energetic and enterprising class the subject of this review very properly belongs. Having never been seized with the roaming desires that have led many of DeKalb county's young men to other fields of endeavor and other states, where they have sought their fortune, Mr. Thrush has devoted his life to industries at home and had succeeded remarkably well, as we shall see by a study of his life history. Albert N. Thrush, than whom no citizen of Butler township enjoys to a greater degree the popular confidence and regard, was born in Noble county, Indiana, on February 22, 1860, the son of William T. and Sarepta (Errickson) Thrush. The subject's mother was a native of Indiana and his father of Pennsylvania, from whence he came to Indiana, settling in Fort Wayne, where he followed the trade of a mason. Subsequently he moved to Noble county, Indiana, where he married and then, in 1868, came to DeKalb county, settling on a farm in Butler township. He retired and lived in Auburn from 1884 until his death, August 31, 1891. His wife passed away in Auburn in April 1897. They were the parents of seven children, the subject of this sketch being the second born. Albert N. Thrush received his education in the common schools of Noble and DeKalb counties, and as soon as old enough took up his share of the farm work. He has never relinquished his agricultural activities, and is now the owner of a splendid farm of two hundred and sixty-seven acres in Butler township, where he carries on general farming, raising all the crops generally cultivated in this locality and also giving some attention to live stock. His farm is kept in good condition and is numbered among the valuable homesteads of Butler township. In January, 1882, Mr. Thrush married Ellen Pepple, the daughter of Joseph and Adeline Pepple, and to then have been born three children, Walter M., who married Inez Heitz; Marie, a teacher, and Marion, in high school. In the civic life to the community Mr. Thrush has long taken a live interest and has served as trustee of his township one term, 1895 to 1900, to the entire satisfaction of his fellow citizens. He has also served as president of the Farmers' Mutual Insurance Company of DeKalb county for six years and five years as a director, having been actively identified with the company for eleven years. He has also served as county chairman of the DeKalb County Farmers' Institute work for three years and is still actively connected with this association. It is a well authenticated fact that success comes only as the result of legitimate and well applied energy, unflagging determination and untiring perseverance, and in tracing the history of the subject of this sketch, it is found that the above element have entered very largely into his makeup, and therefore there is no surprise at the splendid success which has crowned his efforts. His relations with his fellows have been such as to inspire their respect and confidence, and today no citizen of Butler township is held in higher esteem than A. N. Thrush. Politically, Mr. Thrush is a Republican; fraternally, is a member of the Lodge No. 689, Free and Accepted Masons, at Hometown, Indiana, and, with his wife, belongs to the Methodist Episcopal church. The son, Walter M., who has always assisted his father on the home place, is also a Mason.

Biography of Oliver E. Shaffer, pages 894/895/896. History of DeKalb County, Indiana; B. F. Bowen & Company, Inc., Indianapolis, 1914.

The gentleman whose name initiates this sketch is numbered among the successful and representative agriculturists of DeKalb county, his farm property being located in Smithfield township. In all the relations of life he has ever been found faithful and true, performing his duty at all times unflinchingly, and while advancing his own interest, he as also had the good of the entire community at heart. Oliver E. Shaffer was born on May 7, 1857, at Bethany, Harrison county, Missouri, and is the son of William and Rebecca (Francis) Shaffer. William Shaffer was born on July 26, 1827, in Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, and was a son of Simon and Margaret (Kinnard) Shaffer, the father being a good old Pennsylvania Dutch stock and a wagon-maker by trade. His son, William also learned the trade and in young manhood accompanied his parents on their removal to Ohio. On August 15, 1850, William Shaffer married Rebecca A. Francis, who was born on December 27, 1833, in Madison county, Ohio, and in 1853, the young couple moved to Harrison county, Missouri. There they lived until 1860, when they moved to Centerville, Marion county, Iowa, where Mr. Shaffer continued at his trade as a wagon-maker. On January 27, 1864, he suffered the loss of his wife by death, leaving him with five small children to care for. In March, 1864, he brought his little family to DeKalb county, where his parents were then residing about a half mile south of Sedan, and here he engaged in the operation of eighty acres of land belonging to his mother in Richland township, in connection with which he also operated a threshing outfit. For about two years prior to his death he was employed in a carriage factory at Auburn, spending his last days with his son, Oliver, the subject of this sketch, in whose home his death occurred on February 3, 1890. On February 26, 1874, he had married Mary Ann Rohm, to which union were born two children, namely: Nettie and John, both of whom are deceased, their mother dying on August 20, 1876. By his first marriage he was the father of five children: Isaac N., deceased; Oliver E., the subject of this sketch; Emma R., Mrs. Clara I. Dilgard and Mrs. Ida Lehmbeck. The subject of this sketch was about three years old when his father moved to Iowa, and was about five or six years old when his mother died. In March before he had attained his seventh birthday his father brought the family to DeKalb county, locating four miles west of Waterloo, and there the subject of this sketch grew to manhood, receiving his education in the public schools. After attaining his majority he spent about two years in farm work between Auburn and Waterloo, and after his marriage, in 1883, he farmed two years on the Husselman place. He then bought the land where he now lives comprising eighty acres in section 36, Smithfield township, on which he has made many permanent and substantial improvements, including a comfortable and attractive residence, a large, commodious and well arranged barn and other conveniences characteristic of a modern and up-to-date farm. He has devoted most of his attention to his farm, but he has also during the past eight years given some attention to threshing and previous to his marriage had been employed some at carpenter work. In every effort to which he has applied himself he has exhibited good judgment and discriminating sagacity, so that he has been enabled to attain a definite success all along the line. On October 2, 1883, Mr. Shaffer married Vesta Husselman, the daughter of George and Frances (Bachtel) Husselman, the father a native of Ohio and the mother born in Stark county, that state, and a sister of Henry Bachtel, whose sketch appears elsewhere in this volume. George Husselman was a brother of Henry Husselman and Samuel Husselman, who also are represented in this work, George Husselman came to DeKalb county with his parents, with whom he lived until his marriage to Frances Bachtel, after which he made his home one and one-half miles south of Waterloo, having bought land there from the government in an early day, the same being in the same condition it was when left by the Indians. The local conveniences were more conspicuous by their absence than otherwise, it being necessary to receive mail from Fort Wayne, and other accommodations were proportionately lacking. Mr. Husselman entered one hundred and sixty acres of land, the most of which he cleared. He and his wife were faithful member of the Evangelical church, and were respected citizens of their community. Mrs. Shaffer is one of six children born to their parents, of whom three died in infancy, the others being Mrs. Shaffer, Cornelius, who lived on the old Husselman farm in Grant township, and Laura, the wife of Fred Kruger, of Auburn. Mrs. Shaffer's father died in the fall of 1873, and his wife after ward became the wife of Levi Stoner and lived on the home farm until her death in the fall of 1909. Mr. Stoner died in 1910. Mrs. Shaffer was born and reared on the paternal homestead, two and one-half miles south of Waterloo, where she lived until her marriage. To Mr. and Mrs. Shaffer was born a son, Arthur, who died on August 21, 1887, at the age of two years and ten months. Mr. Shaffer is progressive and enterprising in his farming methods, raising all the crops common to this section of the country, and also giving some attention to the raising of live stock. Practical and progressive in his methods and energetic and industrious in his habits, he has allowed nothing to swerve him from his chosen work and his labors have been rewarded with a due meed of success. Personally, he is a man of splendid qualities of character and has earned the warm regard of all who know him and is deservedly popular among his acquaintances.

Biography of George Shaffer, pages 728/729. History of DeKalb County, Indiana; B. F. Bowen & Company, Inc., Indianapolis, 1914.

DeKalb county figures as one of the most attractive, progressive and prosperous division of the state of Indiana, justly claiming a high order of citizenship an a spirit of enterprise which is certain to conserve development and marked advancement in the material upbuilding of the section. The county has been and is signally favored in the class of men who have controlled its affairs in official capacity, and in this connection the subject of the review demands representation as one who is serving his community will in a position of distinct trust and responsibility. For many years recognized as one of the successful agriculturists of this locality, Mr. Shaffer has for a number to years been retired from active labor and is now spending his years in his comfortable and attractive home in Corunna. George Shaffer was born on August 31, 1860, in Stark county, Ohio, and is the son of Lewis and Elizabeth (Luttman) Shaffer, both of whom were natives of Pennsylvania. These parents were reared and educated in the old Keystone state and were there married, after which event they came to Ohio, whence, after a residence of about ten years, they came to DeKalb county, settling in Richland township on April 1, 1864. Here they spent the balance of their lives, the father engaging in blacksmithing, in which he was very successful. They were the parents of the following children: Martin, Mary, David, Katherine, George, Barbara, Lewis, Elizabeth and Ella. The subject of this sketch received his education in the common schools of Richland township, this county, and upon attaining manhood's years he took up the vocation of farming, having wisely decided that in that vocation he would secure an independence and a success that was offered in no other line of effort. He carried on a general line of farming, in connection with which he also raised some live stock and became the owner of eighty acres of splendid land in Richland township which demanded his undivided attention until 1905, when, having amassed a sufficient competency to insure his future years from embarrassment, he retired from active life and now resides in Corunna, to which place he moved in April, 1904. On October 18, 1883, Mr. Shaffer married Samantha Harding, the daughter of Dimmick and Sarah (Bike) Harding, who were early settlers in DeKalb county. Mr. and Mrs. Shaffer had no children of their own, but adopted a daughter, Lulu, who is at home and to whom they gave the same cheerful and loving attention that she would have received had she been their own daughter. Mrs. Shaffer died on September 13, 1905. Democratic in politics, Mr. Shaffer has for many years been actively interested in the success of his party and in 1908 was elected trustee of Richland township, which important local office he is filling to the entire satisfaction of his fellow citizens, His term will expire in 1915. In the discharge of his official duties, Mr. Shaffer exercises the same vigilance and sound business methods that he followed in his private affairs and is giving careful attention to the welfare of the township in which he lives. In every phase of life's activities in which he has engaged he has been guided by the highest motives and because of his integrity and high personal worth he has earned the commendation of all who know him.

Biography of Elias Schopf, pages 778/779/780. History of DeKalb County, Indiana; B. F. Bowen & Company, Inc., Indianapolis, 1914.

Taken highlights

To attain a worthy citizenship by a life that is always honored and respected even from childhood deserves more than mere mention. One may take his place in public life through some vigorous stroke of public policy, and even remain in the hearts of neighbors and friends, but to take the same position by dint of the practice of an upright life, and without a craving for exaltation and popularity, is worthy of the highest praise and commendation. The late Elias Schopf, one of the successful men and public-spirited citizens of DeKalb county, Indiana, who departed this life on January 31, 1911, and who was well known throughout this community, was a man honored and respected, not because of the vigorous training of his special talents, but because of his daily life, each day having been one that was above criticism and passed upon in the light of real, true manhood. Strong and forceful in his relations with his fellow men, he not only made his presence felt, but also gained the good will and confidence of both his associates and the general public, ever retaining his reputation among men for integrity and character, no matter how trying the circumstances, and never losing that dignity which is the birthright of a gentleman. Consequently his influence for good in the general life of his community was most potent, and he will long be sadly missed from the various circles in which he moved and over which his influence was like sunshine on a field of ripened wheat. Elias Schopf was a native of the old Keystone state of Pennsylvania having been born in Lancaster county on the 5th day of April, 1831. He was a son of Henry and Elnora Schopf, who, in 1840, loaded their household effects into a covered wagon and brought their children with them to Wayne county, Indiana. there the subject of this sketch grew to manhood and in 1860 was married. Three years later he and his wife came to DeKalb county, locating on a farm about one mile south of where Garrett is now located, buying the place where Mrs. Schopf now lives, consisting of eighty acres. At that early day but little of this land had been cleared, the major part of the tract being swampy and densely covered with timber and undergrowth. Through this wild solitude deer were still to be seen and many other wild animals were found, some of whom found a place in the larder of the pioneer families. The first home of the family here was an old log cabin, but soon afterward a more comfortable and attractive frame house was erected, and in 1891 Mr. Schopf erected a substantial, well-arranged and attractive brick house which is still standing and in which Mr. Schopf now lives. Early in life Mr. Schopf had learned the trade of cigar making, which, for a time, he followed here in the early days, but he soon abandoned that work and gave his entire attention to farming. In this he was successful, for he was energetic and methodical in his work, giving attention to every detail of the improvement and cultivation of his land until he had developed it into one of the best farms in this locality. Personally, Mr. Schopf was a man of intelligence and high character, whose life, though quiet, was eminently useful to the community in many ways. He was a man among men, standing "four-square to the wind that blew," and all who knew him realized that he was the possessor of good attributes which could be relied upon. Broad-minded and sagacious in his views of men and things, he was generous in his relations with all causes which appeared to him to be for the betterment of the community and in the early life of DeKalb county he was ever ready to perform his share in helping to lighten the burdens of his fellow pioneers. He was strongly domestic in his tastes and to his wife he was a loving, thoughtful husband, with whom he shared the joys and sorrows of life for over a half century, while to his children he gave that thoughtful care and kindly attention which endeared him to them. His death was the first in this large family, as all the children and grandchildren survive him. On November 15, 1860, Elias Schopf married Catherine Strouse, who was born in Berks county, Pennsylvania, November 28, 1841, a daughter of Philip and Sarah (Long) Strouse. When she was about eighteen years of age she came to Wayne county, Indiana, to join a brother who had preceded her and with whom she lived until her marriage to Mr. Schopf. To them were born ten children, four sons and six daughters, namely: Boston Walter, born August 12, 1861, lives on the home farm; Savannah Elizabeth born October 18, 1862, is the wife of Irving Smith, of Hillsdale, Michigan; Viola Ellen, born March 28, 1864, married Daniel Lung and lives in Butler township, this county; Sarah Catherine, born December 28, 1867 is the wife of Percy Cornell, of Jackson, Butler township, this county; Philip Monroe, born November 18, 1869, married Louise Miller and they lived in Garrett, this county; Carilla Larah, born May 18, 1872, is the wife of William Heitz, and lives in Fowlerton, Indiana; Anise Maria, born March 22, 1875, is the wife of Bert Fitch, of Garrett; Sylvester Sydney, born January 12, 1877, married Semma Knott, who is now deceased, and he lives on the old home place, being in the employ of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company; Preston Darius, born April 15, 1879, and who is a watchmaker by vocation is living at home. Almeda Stella, born April 27, 1881, is the wife of Albert Barringer, of San Francisco, California. The following grandchildren are included in this family record. Mrs. Savannah Smith's two children, Russell and Raymond; Mrs. Daniel Lung's five children, Alta, Archie, Arlie, Frankie and Edna; Mrs. Sarah Cornell's four children, Ethel, Esther, Ernest and Myrtle; Mrs. Anise Fitch is the mother of four children, Ivan, Oscar, Thelma and Floretta; Sylvester has a son, Danford; Mrs. Lung's daughter, Alta married Walter Downend, and they have two daughters, Catherine and Laurine, and Mrs. Lung's son, Frank, married Myrtle Mowrey, and they have one son, Lester. In 1868 Mr. and Mrs. Schopf became members of the Reformed Mennonite church, and their lives ever afterward were fairly consistent with the profession they thus made. Generous, charitable and kind in all their relations with their fellows, none of the old residents of this community ever enjoyed the confidence and respect of all more than this worthy couple, and Mrs. Schopf is now beloved by all who know her because of her kindly qualities and the thoughtful regard which she entertains for all who come in contact with her.

FROM THE MANUSCRIPT OF W. H. DILLS.

"We can very well remember seeing these early settlers and their families with their white-covered wagons, the wife or daughter driving, the father and boys following and driving, with the aid of a dog, a cow or two, sometimes a few sheep, all wending their way toward the setting sun, or plunging into the forest, and hauling up or stopping upon a tract of land, upon which not a tree had been cut, and where for ages the rays of the orb of day had not penetrated, amidst the chorus of the feathered songsters of the grove and the silence of the night, disturbed only by the hootings of the owl, or the indescribable howlings of hungry wolves. There you, or the fathers of you, who came in early times, halted their wagons, which contained all they had on earth; and there today you will find comfort, luxury and ease.

"Before reaching that final resting place weeks and months had passed in reaching the goal, following Indian trails scarcely wide enough to admit of the passage of a wagon, no bridges, dangers to be encompassed on every side, the early settler was of necessity his own sentinel, and upon himself relied for protection and safety. The trails would sometimes seem to run out--come to an end. Sometimes they would divide and create doubt as to the course that should be pursued. He had no compass and could not tell the cardinal points, but by an examination of trees he could tell the north side of them by the heaviest growth of moss or bark, and thereby determine his course. When night came ere he reached his destination, by the side of the trail, where water and grass were sufficient, he would build a fire, without the aid of matches, by the side of some huge log, and there prepare their meal, his wife and little ones retiring to sleep in the wagon, and he, wrapped in a blanket, on the leaves under it, with his faithful dog on one side and his trusty rifle on the other, there seek repose and rest, with as much confidence of safety and exemption from injury as you upon your downy couches, within bolted doors.

"After reaching his land. purchased of the government at $1.25 per acre, or from some speculator for $2.00, $3.00 or $4.00 per acre, the pioneer finds for a time that his neighbors are few and far between. With difficulty he at last succeeds in building his rude little cabin and in clearing off a few acres, by cutting down all the trees eighteen inches or less in diameter, and girdling all the others, which will give him a short supply of corn and vegetables.

"The privations of the early settler were great, but often their perils were still greater. Diseases, indigenous to a new country, of which he had previously no knowledge or experience, and generally malarial in their character, were certain to overtake him and his family. The massive foliage of the giant trees through which the sun scarcely penetrated, and the black soil vegetation, and the decayed vegetable matter everywhere abounding, generated vast columns of miasma. No physician or drug store was probably within twenty miles, and himself and family were racked almost to death with the shakes, or scorched with raging fevers. Until acclimated by a residence of from two to five years, and sometimes longer, the early settler was yearly visited with attacks of fever and ague, and felt thankful, indeed, if in the fall seasons he did not have an attack of bilious or intermittent fever. Snake bites, broken or cut limbs, and rheumatism from his frequent exposure were of frequent occurrence, and no medical aid at hand.

"Even in health their privations seem almost incredible to us. Lumber was not to be had at any price; mills were distant, and what roads there were, were almost impassable. A journey of weeks, sometimes, leaving the wife and children, was necessary to obtain the necessities of life. Families were almost driven to the verge of starvation, living for weeks on potatoes, wheat bran, and I have heard, on beach-bark and milk. The private history of the sufferings, privations and heroic endurance of many families in early times in this county has not been, nor will it ever be, written.

"In early days we asked not whether the new comer was a Whig or a Democrat, Jew or Gentile, Methodist or Baptist, rich or poor; all we wanted to know was that he was a neighbor and a man. Was he a good fellow, truthful, honest and charitable? If he had not these qualities, he did not stay long enough in our midst to become an old settler. * * *

"At the risk of wearying you, I will name a few of those veterans who were the foremost men of the county in 1845, but who have gone to their long homes. Let us speak reverently of them. Their faults were human, but their good qualities and many virtues will commend them to our consideration. I will give them by townships in the usual order, leaving out Keyser, which was not then formed:

"The men whom I have named, who came here prior to January 1, 1846, came before the period of railroads, before canals were dug, and many of them before the roads were cut and bridges built. Just think of it, that thirty-five years ago the residents of our county had never seen a railroad car, and we have over a hundred miles of railroad track in the county today, and two hundred trains daily through it. There was not then in the county a steam engine; there was not one cook stove in a dozen families.

"I recollect very distinctly the first threshing machine. It indeed was a beauty. It did not even separate the grain from the chaff and straw. It was brought into the county by John Zimmerman, who then resided on the Houk farm, in Jackson township. In fact, it would now be a novelty, and, as it did then, would now draw crowds when set to work; and, to use a homely expression, it was the 'biggest thing out.' Instead of being several weeks in flailing, tramping and winnowing out a hundred bushels of wheat, the farmer, with that threshing machine, could thresh out that quantity in a day, and then take his time to run it through the fanning mill. And when he had the wheat ready for market, then he would have to take about three days to carry a load of twenty-five or thirty bushels to Fort Wayne and sell it for fifty or sixty cents a bushel. Corn had a value then proportioned to wheat, the same as now. Pork then ranged at one dollar and a half to two dollars per hundred pounds.

"Even in early days, when the pioneers were undergoing the privations I have spoken of, they had a very large amount of the real pleasures of life; and when an opportunity afforded, it was enjoyed with a relish equally as well as now. It certainly was true enjoyment to help a neighbor raise a house or a barn, do his logging, have quilting and sewing bees, dance on the puncheons in the cabins, take your girl up behind you on horseback and carry her through the woods, six, eight or ten miles to some gathering; and she would have to hold on awfully tight or she would be brushed off the horse by the limbs or trunks of the trees. Think of the making of sugar, hunting bee trees, gathering cranberries, wild plums, cherries, grapes, crab-apples, all kinds of nuts and ginseng. Think of the excellent hunting and fishing there was here then; all kinds and in large quantities were the fish, wild fowls and wild animals."

A COSTLY TRIP.

Cyrus Smith, the hero of travels, in search of unentered land, although ill at the time, set out in December, 1837, with a yoke of oxen, for Gilead, Michigan. Rains had swollen the streams and he was obliged to lay over every other day from sickness, yet he reached his goal, got eight bushels of corn, and started for the Vermont mills or Orland. A cold spell set in, snow fell fast, the winds rose, and a tree falling before him, he narrowly escaped its limbs, turned aside to go around it, became bewildered, and for hours drove on through the openings. The clouds cleared to the west, and he saw the sun setting, and struck out in that direction. He found the road he had left in the morning three miles in advance of his unfortunate diversion, and passed the night and the next day at Deacon Stocker's. Leaving his corn at the mill, he went to Tull's mill, near White Pigeon prairie and returned with fifteen bushels of smutty wheat. He remained here three days sick, a third waiting for the grist. Finally, starting home, he had to leave his wagon when half a mile from home, turn the oxen loose and foot it in. The eleventh day since leaving home he got back his wagon. His grist, not pricing the corn, cost him in cash, forty-five dollars.

Transcriber's Note:

The 1850 Federal Census for DeKalb County, Indiana was enumerated by Egbert B. Mott, a prominent attorney who lived in Auburn. For the most part, his handwriting is legible and the information seems to be as accurate as what was given to him. But occasionally information entered was obviously or possibly inaccurate. Where such occurs I have noted in the remarks field. Mr. Mott often used abbreviations for states which may not clearly identify the states intended. The following are the most common one to two letter abbreviations he used throughout all townships in DeKalb County.

"Ia" or "I" - Indiana

"Ky" - Kentucky

"O" - Ohio

"Md" - Maryland

"NY" - New York

"Pa" or "P" - Pennsylvania

"Va" - Virginia

"Vt" - Vermont

The 1850 Federal Census for DeKalb County, Indiana was enumerated by Egbert B. Mott, a prominent attorney who lived in Auburn. For the most part, his handwriting is legible and the information seems to be as accurate as what was given to him. But occasionally information entered was obviously or possibly inaccurate. Where such occurs it is noted in the remarks field. Mr. Mott often used abbreviations for states which may not clearly identify the states intended. The following are the most common one to two letter abbreviations he used throughout all townships in DeKalb County.

"Ia" or "I" - Indiana
"Ky" - Kentucky
"O" - Ohio
"Md" - Maryland
"NY" - New York
"Pa" or "P" - Pennsylvania
"Va" - Virginia
"Vt" - Vermont

The 1850 Federal Census for DeKalb County, Indiana was enumerated by Egbert B. Mott, a prominent attorney who lived in Auburn. For the most part, his handwriting is legible and the information seems to be as accurate as what was given to him. But occasionally information entered was obviously or possibly inaccurate. Where such occurs it is noted in the remarks field. Mr. Mott often used abbreviations for states which may not clearly identify the states intended. The following are the most common one to two letter abbreviations he used throughout all townships in DeKalb County.

"Ia" or "I" - Indiana
"Ky" - Kentucky
"O" - Ohio
"Md" - Maryland
"NY" - New York
"Pa" or "p" - Pennsylvania
"Va" - Virginia
"Vt" - Vermont

Preface

This record was compiled for the convenience of those who do not have or care to search microfilm of DeKalb County, Indiana census. It is as free of error as humanly possible. Some names were almost impossible to read, maybe some of you readers can fill in from personal knowledge. Spelling of names are as recorded and perhaps often times no correct as the census takers many times spelled the name as it sounded.

There were no townships recorded on the records although there were some formed at the time the census was taken. The DeKalb county Histories, give accounts of the organization of each.

The 1840 Census records war pensioners but none were given for DeKalb County.

I am pleased to have been able to add records of our American heritage to those already available. May you find pleasure and help in using this information.

Roy E. King Family

ROY ELMER KING, born 25 September 1913, one farm south of Ashley, son of Clarence Arthur, born 1 February 1882, DeKalb County, died 2 June 1956, south of Ashley, and Hester Nora (Reinoehl), born 11 September 1886 and died 13 October 1979. Hester and Clarence had two children: Irene Mae (King) Bailey and Roy Elmer.

Early in their marriage, they joined the Cedar Lake Church of Christ and remained members until their deaths. In 1881 Jeremiah bought acreage in Smithfield Township, south of Ashley, establishing the King homestead. The farm has remained in the family down through the generations, now owned by his great grandson, Darrell Roy King. Jeremiah and Lydia had a family of six children, only four lived through adulthood: Clarence A.; William G.; Riley V.; and Mayme S.

Paternal great grandparents were Isaac, born 23 March 1827, Columbiana County, Ohio, died 7 June 1905, DeKalb County and Nancy (Newcomer) King, born 18 July 1826, Columbiana County, Ohio, died 15 October 1905, DeKalb County. 1948-1949 Auburn Red Devils Basketball Team.

19.8 STATE CHAMPIONSHIP TEAMS

DeKalb County has had four state championship teams and one near state champion.

19.8A Auburn Red Devils - Near Champions In Basketball In 1949

Hoosier Hysteria reached its peak in Auburn in 1949 when the Red Devils advanced to the state's final four for the only time in the school's history.

The Red Devils lost to Jasper by five points, ending their dream of a state title. Jasper went on to win the state championship.

Auburn fashioned an 18-2 regular-season record and was ranked as high as seventh in the state.

The team's two losses came by a total of seven points to Mishawaka and Wabash. Auburn was undefeated in conference play and defeated all three public schools in Fort Wayne. The team went on to win the regional title -the first of five straight for the school.

It was a group of guys who wanted to play well and work well together, said Don Derrow, now an Auburn Dentist. Other teams had better talent than we did, but we worked hard to win. The town supported its hoop heroes in large numbers. For the state tourney, the school only had 300 tickets remaining after season-ticket holders were accommodated. A lottery was held for the remaining 300 tickets and 1,800 took their chances at getting one of the prized tickets.

Roger Wertenberger, now the president of Peoples Federal Savings Bank in Auburn, was the team's leading scorer that season. However, he caught the flu during state finals week and was slowed by illness.

It was a very rewarding experience to have played on that team, Wertenberger said. I have a lot of fond memories. Both Derrow and Wertenberger credited coach Keith Showalter with much of their success. Showalter was a member of Indiana Basketball Hall of Fame.

He instilled in us the desire to win, Derrow said. He deserves a lot of the credit for what we did. The other members of the team were Bob Bates, Jim Schooley, Ken McInturf, Bud McComb, Theo Webb, Barney Beers, Don Kelly, and Ted Miller. Hugh Western was the student manager, while Zeke Young was an assistant coach.

Schooley played for Indiana University's NCAA national champion team in 1953. All of the team's members eventually became successful in their chosen professions.

19.8B Ashley Aces - 1963 State Cross-Country Champions

Eight swift runners and their coaches made Ashley High School one of the smallest schools ever to win a state championship.

Ashley outraced the whole state in the fall of 1963 to win the state cross country title. The Aces had the low total of 82 points in the state finals, beating West Lafayette's 97.

Fred McClish led the team with an eighth-place finish. Jim Reinoehl was 15th, Steve Grill 22nd, Jack Baumgartner 23rd, and John Hamman 41st. Other varsity runners were John Grill, Steve Hartman, and Bill McClish.

Dwight Graber coached the team and his assistant was Rex Hile. Dwight is the older brother of Auburn businessman Allen Graber.

Ashley's win was no fairy tale upset. The team from the tiny school was undefeated all season, winning every meet it entered, including the prestigious Shortridge Invitational.

The year before, Ashley had placed second in the state meet behind Gary Roosevelt. And despite heavy graduation losses, Ashley was fourth in the state meet in 1964.

Ashley's champions could do more than run two miles over hill and valley. On a harder, level surface, they played a racehorse brand of basketball that took them to the regional finals in the winter of 1964. In the only all-DeKalb County regional championship game, they lost to a towering Garrett team 62-59 in overtime.

Ashley used only six players in the regional final, and five were from the cross-country team. Grills, Hamman, Baumgartner, and Reinoehl were joined by Larry Biggerstaff on the hardcourt. Graber also coached the basketball team.

Steve Grill still coaches basketball at Frankfort High School, after outstanding seasons at Hamilton and Angola. Graber coached champion basketball teams elsewhere before going into business.

The running success of his Aces made Graber take cross-country as seriously as basketball, said John Reinoehl of rural Ashley, who ran on the 1962 state runner-up team.

I think when he started, he was just running for conditioning, but after the first year or so he was there, he could see that he had something, Reinoehl said.

Reinoehl said Graber blended both sports well. He remembers hours of running basketball fast break drills as part of cross-county practice.

He never allowed us to think 'We're really good,' Reinoehl said. And they weren't merely good - they were the best.

19.8C Garrett Railroaders - 1974 State Class A Football Champions

Garrett's state football championship resulted from a simple and basic game plan.

The Railroaders used their size and power and the running of Paul Yarian to bully their opponents, and then relied on their defense to crush the opposition.

It never failed.

The Railroaders went 11-0 as they won the Class A title in the then three-tiered playoffs. Four teams in each division qualified for the state playoffs.

The Railroaders narrowly earned a spot in the state tour nament, which is now open to all teams after an eight-game regular season.

Garrett, coached by Dave Wiant, won all nine of its regular-season battles.

But the most important was the finale when the Railroaders came from behind to defeat Columbia City 22-20 and guarantee themselves a place in the state's final four.

The Railroaders opened the playoffs with a 7-0 victory over Whiting, with the lone score coming in the fourth quarter on a 24-yard pass from Steve Walton to Matt Ellert.

In the state final, the Railroaders dominated North Knox en route to a 20-6 victory. Yarian scored all three Garrett touchdowns as the Railroaders rushed for all 267 of their total yards on a bitter-cold night, including 201 from Yarian.

Paul Rassel, Garrett's all-conference line-backer, received the Phil Eskew Mental Attitude Award.

19.8D DeKalb Barons - 1980 State Baseball Champions

There have been many great athletes and many great teams in the 150-year history of DeKalb County.

But the single most dramatic moment in county sports history belongs to the 1980 state championship DeKalb Baron baseball team.

The scene in the state final: DeKalb 0, Muncie North 0 on the bottom of the eighth inning. DeKalb's Chris Forrest at second, two outs and freshman designated hitter Bob Squires at the plate.

And at 10:31 p.m. in Indianapolis' Bush Stadium, Squires delivered a sharp single to right field to score Forrest and give the Barons their state title.

The victory capped at 30-8 season for the Barons, who had graduated 13 seniors from their 1979 team. Entering 1980, the team returned only one starter and six seniors.

But the Barons quickly opened the 1980 campaign with a nine-game winning streak. Ironically, the state-title victory over Muncie North gave the Barons another nine-game winning streak. DeKalb pitcher-infielder Mike Hasselman received the L. V. Phillips Mental Attitude Award.

The state title featured what were and still are the staples of the Bill Jones Baron program - pitching, defence, aggressive base-running and timely hitting. In the final game, the Barons received four-hit pitching from Todd Cobbs and Mike Hasselman.

Perhaps the groundwork for the 1980 state title was laid by the 1977 Barons, who advanced to the state's final four -giving the team confidence it could compete with the best teams in Indiana.

The 1977 state final appearance was the Barons' first under Jones, who has won more than 400 career games in his career at DeKalb and Hicksville, Ohio.

The DeKalb team, was from the smallest school ever to win the state championship. The players on the championship team were Nick Phillips, Chris Forrest, Todd Cobbs, Bob Squires, Doug Hall, Brad Blevins, Mike Hasselman, John Ketzenberger, Troy Sommers, Charlie Dobson, Craig Conrad, and Reichard. The winning game was pitched by Mike Hasselman and Todd Cobbs.

19.8E DeKalb Barons - 1986 State Class 4-A Football Champions

DeKalb's football team didn't hide its goals for the 1986 season. Prior to the start of the year, the Baron players announced they were shooting for a state title.

They didn't disappoint as they captured the Indiana Class 4A title with a 13-1 record, including an impressive 28-7 thumping of Franklin Central in the final game at the Hoosier Dome on November 29, 1986.

The Barons bruised many an opponent with a punishing ground game and a superb defense. DeKalb outscored their opponents 433-74, setting 63 team and individual records. Baron players also received numerous post-season honors.

DeKalb's only loss came to arch-rival East Noble in the third week of the season. But after that, the Barons were a team on a mission. Each week they improved and each week the major contributors changed.

Yet, the core of the success was the coaching of Dale Hummer and his staff and a dedicated group of seniors.

As I look back on it, it was like a dream come true, Hummer said. There are so many odds against you, that you think it may never happen to you.

But everything came together for us and we got the job done. There are so many people that deserve credit for it. I'm just happy that I was able to be a part of something like this. Baron running back Rick Endsley was the featured performer offensively, rushing for 2,128 yards and scoring 29 touchdowns. He holds virtually every school rushing and scoring record.

In the win over Franklin Central, Endsley rushed for 194 yards and three touchdowns.

The offense also centered around running back Mike Cochran, tight end Denny West and linemen Brian Raub, Jim Wilson, Scott Sproat, Dan McAninch, and Mike Schmidt. On defense, Cochran and West led the way as they combined for 318 tackles.

A lot of kids had great seasons and that's what it takes to be a state champion - everyone has to play to their potential and we certainly did that, Hummer said.

19.9 INDIVIDUAL SPORTS STANDOUTS

There have been many individual sports standouts.

Kenneth Wilson of DeKalb won the Indiana State Championship in the low hurdles in 1971.

George Mountz, of Garrett, was Indiana state high jump champion in 1926.

Dan Brook, also a Baron, won the state title in 167-pound class wrestling in 1984. He never met his match enroute to the state title. Thirty-four wrestlers took on Brook and all thirty-four lost. But Brook's 34th opponent - Jasper's Todd Kersteins -almost ended Brook's state-title dream in the championship match.

With Brook trailing 5-4 and 10 seconds remaining in the match, Kersteins was in control. But Brook escaped Kersteins and reversed the hold with one second left in the match.

The reversal gave Brook two points, a 6-5 victory and a state championship.

Brook finished his career with a brilliant 88-7 record, with 57 of the victories coming by pin. During his state-championship season, he also won conference, sectional, regional and semi-state titles.

Brook also ranks among the career leaders in virtually every category of DeKalb's wrestling statistics.

David Williams was an all-around sports figure for the Auburn Red Devils in the 1930's. Bob Sutton was the leading scorer for the 1983 DeKalb basketball team.

Everett Scott was a DeKalb County resident who played major league baseball in the 1910's.

Ron Pepple was a DeKalb track, basketball, and cross-country standout. Bob Squires set a national high school record by hitting six consecutive home runs in 1982 while playing for the DeKalb Barons. Steve Post is DeKalb's all-time basketball scorer. Tom Hertz, of Hamilton, was an Indiana basketball all-star. Other DeKalb basketball standouts were Dennis Post, David Hathaway, and Terry Habig.

JEFF STROMAN

Garrett standout Jeff Stroman was often referred to as The Jet for his quick dashes, whether they came on the track or the basketball court.

On the track, Stroman was a two-time state champion in the high hurdles during the 1971 and 1972 seasons - the IHSAA's first repeat winner in nearly 20 years.

He had a winning time of 14.2 seconds in the 120-yard race in 1972 and a clocking of 14.4 in 1971.

Following his 1972 state title, Stroman was presented with the IHSAA's Robert S. Hinshaw Trophy, which annually was presented to the state's outstanding senior athlete, who combined athletic prowess, scholarship, mental attitude, and school citizenship.

Perhaps Stoman's most-noted feats came on the hardwood where he still holds or shares several DeKalb/Garrett sectional records.

The Railroaders won both sectional and regional titles in both 1971 and 1972 before losing to Bobby Wilkerson and Anderson Madison Heights in the semistate both years.

Garrett was 22-4 in 1972 and 17-9 in 1971.

Stroman and Hamilton's Tom Heitz share the sectional record of 36 points in a single game, while Stroman is the sectional's all-time leading scorer with 179 points in his career.

Along with Angola's Jeff Stackhouse, he shares the record of most field goals in a sectional game with 15.

Stroman was a three-sport standout, also competing in football. He was an all-state athlete in both football and basketball.

Following his Garrett career, Stroman went onto Mississippi State and was an honorable mention Academic All-America athlete at the school, where he majored in accounting.

He eventually became a certified public accountant.

CHUCK BAVIS

Like Stroman, Bavis was a basketball hero for the Railroaders. He later starred for Purdue University.

With Bavis as one of the key figures, the Railroaders won the Fort Wayne regional in 1964 and sectional titles in both 1965 and 1966.

The 1965 Railroader team was one of the best ever at the school with its 23-2 record and conference title. At one point during the season, Garrett won 21 straight games.

Bavis then played at Purdue for two seasons before his career was cut short by a foot injury suffered in an auto accident.

CHRISTIAN UNION CEMETERY

Christian Union Cemetery is located on County Road 7, one mile west of the junction of State Roads 327 and 8.

The cemetery has expanded from the original $1\frac{1}{2}$ acres donated by Jacob Brechbill in 1888. At that time, the land was large enough for a church building, hitching places for the horses and a small plot of ground "wherein to bury the humane dead". It was noted that part of a wheat field adjacent to the church had to be cut at the time of the burial of Sarah Yarde in 1882.

The cemetery now encompasses fifteen acres. In 1918, the cemetery was incorporated and in 1949, land on the west side of the road was purchased from the Walter Davidson family.

The first west side addition was opened in 1950 with one section set apart for the burial of babies, known as Baby Haven. The second west side addition opened in July of 1965, and the rest of the cemetery was surveyed in 1979 and opened on Memorial Day of 1980.

The Cemetery Board now includes James Haynes, president; Phil Brechbill, vice president; Esther Davidson, secretary-treasurer; and Harry Rowe and Sam Cook. 1988

Although the above map is not drawn to scale, the researcher will have an approximate idea of the names of the sections. There are no signs or markers at the cemetery to indicate these sections.

Cedar Creek: An Outstanding Hoosier Resource

Called Mes-kwah-wa-se-pe by Native Americans, Cedar Creek in Allen and DeKalb Counties is one of only three streams included in Indiana's Natural, Scenic and Recreational Rivers System [310 IAC 4-2-1]. The others are the Blue River in Harrison, Crawford and Washington Counties and Wildcat Creek in Tippecanoe and Carroll Counties.

At the end of the last ice age, the upper part of Cedar Creek began as an "ice-marginal" channel at the western edge of the Erie Lobe of the glacial ice and formed a single stream with the Eel River in what is now Whitley County. This "ancestral Eel River" was also fed by glacial meltwater surging through a sub-ice channel or "tunnel valley" which can be seen today as the beautiful Cedar Creek Canyon area of northern Allen County.

As glacial melting continued and the Erie Lobe retreated eastward, Cedar Creek shifted its course into the tunnel valley to become a tributary of the St. Joseph River to the southeast, the valley portion actually reversing its flow. In so doing, Cedar Creek cut off the Eel from its original headwaters, becoming what geologists call a "pirate stream." The Eel River-Cedar Creek aquifer system consists of sediments and outwash laid down when the two streams were connected. The result of Cedar Creek's "piracy" was to increase the size of the Maumee River drainage system at the expense of that of the Wabash.

Today's Cedar Creek rises at Cedar Lake in northwest DeKalb County and drains nearly 175,000 acres before meeting the St. Joseph River near Cedarville in Allen County. Once a meandering stream, the DeKalb County portion of Cedar Creek was "channelized" in about 1900. A few segments of the original channel -- generally oxbows cut off by the ditching -- survive as seasonal wetlands in the creek's flood fringe. One such segment lies between Eckhart Park and Woodlawn Cemetery in Auburn. Another segment on the grounds of Greenhurst Country Club in Auburn was filled in 1998.

The southern part of Cedar Creek -- from river mile 13.7 (at County Road 68 in DeKalb county) to its confluence with the St. Joseph -- is designated by the Indiana Department of Environmental Management as "an outstanding state resource" [327 IAC 2-1-2], a distinction it shares only with the Blue River and Wildcat Creek (mentioned above), the Indiana portion of Lake Michigan and the waters inside the Indiana Dunes National Lakeshore. The purpose of the designation is to maintain these waters "in their present state of high quality without degradation." [Emphasis added.]

Cedar Creek's headwaters have been extensively ditched and dredged for agricultural drainage, which has increased the watershed's vulnerability to erosion. Increased development has also created problems with bacterial contamination resulting from inadequate home septic systems. Misguided and inappropriate flood control schemes and "debrushing" projects that alter natural hydrology and vegetation are further threats to Cedar Creek's water quality and integrity as an outstanding state resource.

BUTLER TOWNSHIP.

SITUATION.—GEOGRAPHY AND TOPOGRAPHY.—ORGANIZATION.—FIRST SETTLERS.—FIRST CHURCHES.—EARLY JUSTICES, CONSTABLES AND TRUSTEES.—SOMETHING OF ABRAHAM FAIR, A PIONEER.—POPULATION.—PROPERTY AND TAXATION.—AGRICULTURAL STATISTICS.—BIOGRAPHICAL.

Lying in the extreme southwestern corner of De Kalb County is Butler Township. It is bounded on the north by Keyser Township, on the east by Jackson, on the south by Perry Township, Allen County, and on the west by Swan Township, Noble County. It is well watered by Cedar Creek in the eastern part and the Little Cedar and the Black in the western part. Two railroads traverse it,—the Wabash, St. Louis & Pacific, and the Michigan Southern,—both running southwest and northeast. Thus the farmers have three shipping points—Cedar Creek on the Wabash, and New Era and St. John on the Michigan Southern. Garrett, the nearest trading town, is only two miles from its north line. The soil is generally rich, and the township is advancing to the front as an agricultural and stock raising section.

The first regular meeting of the County Board of Commissioners was held Sept. 4, 5 and 6, 1837, attended by the full board. On the second day's session they "ordered that the congressional township 33 north, range 12 east, be and it is hereby organized as a civil township, to be known by the name of Butler Township." It was also resolved "that Andrew Surface be appointed Supervisor for the road district No. 1, comprising the whole of Butler Township, and all the hands in said township shall be assigned to the same district." The first election was afterward appointed for the first Monday in April, 1838, at the house of Robert Work. As thus organized, Butler was six miles square; and it remained that large until 1876, when twelve sections were taken from its northern side, toward the new township of Keyser—thus reducing Butler to its present dimensions, four miles by six, or twenty-four sections.

The pioneers of Butler Township were Peter Fair and his sons Charles and Abraham (Peter Fair was Chairman of the first Board of Commissioners of De Kalb County, and held the position for several years), Charles Crouse, George De Long, and the Surface family, Andrew, and his sons Jacob and John. The year 1835 witnessed their permanent settlement, although they came in the fall previous with a wagon and two spans of horses, and built their cabins. They had to cut their own road from Squire Caswell's, in Allen County, beyond Huntertown, five miles, to the place where they settled; and also a considerable part of the way from Fort Wayne, as the track was too narrow and crooked for a four-horse team. Later in the same year Lewis Holbrook, Lyman Holbrook, Joseph Stroup, Henry Miller and Michael Miller moved into the township. In the spring of 1836 the population was increased by the arrival of William Surface, John Gregg and James Bell. Sanford Bassett, now of Waterloo, came to the township in 1838, and John Noel, John C. Clark, John Embry and Henry Fair came in 1839. George Ensley, of Auburn, came to make his home in Butler in 1841. Among other families who are identified with the progress of the township are the Moody's, Works, Ensleys and Hoffmans.

The first Justice of the Peace, elected in April, 1838, was William Day, and George Ensley was the next. In 1841 the first church built in this county was erected on the farm of Robert Work, and that relic of a former generation yet stands on the hill. It was built by the Methodist Episcopal denomination,—which is the pioneer religious organization in almost every locality. A log church building was erected near the same site at an early day by the Lutherans. The first Sabbath-school was organized by O. C. Clark, then a young man.

The Justices of the Peace of Butler Township prior to 1860 were William Day, Silas Hand, George Monroe, George Ensley, Wm. McAnnally, Job C. Smith, G. R. Hoffman, O. C. Clark, E. S. Hanson.

Early Constables were Stephen Clark, Abram Brown, William Young, Peter Simons, Uriah Wigent, David Trussell, James Forbes, Jehu Bricker, James McAnnally, R. B. Showers, John Noel, Martin Bilger.

There was a Lutheran Church at the corner of 68 & 27 - map
As well as Methodist which still is being used. - Cedar Chapel on 68

In 1881 it had 2,711 acres in wheat, producing 27,110 bushels, or 10 bushels to the acre; 1,438 acres in corn, producing 57,360 bushels, an average of 40 bushels to the acre on upland, and 50 bushels on bottom land; 430 acres in oats, producing 10,750 bushels, or 25 bushels to the acre; 417 acres of meadow, producing, at the rate of a ton an acre, approximately, 417 tons; 92 acres of potatoes, producing 2,576 bushels, or 28 bushels to the acre.

BIOGRAPHICAL.

William Cornell, deceased, was born in Carroll County, Md., Jan. 14, 1813, a son of Smith and Mary Cornell. The former died in Maryland, and the latter in Nebraska. He was reared in his native State and there married. In 1850 he came with his wife and five children to Indiana, making the trip with wagons. He bought eighty acres of land in Butler Township, DeKalb County, a part of which was cleared, and four years later bought eighty acres more. Of this land he made a good farm, residing on it till his death. When he came to Indiana he had $300 in money, and his team, wagon and household goods. He and his wife went bravely to work, and the farm is now one of the best in the county. He was a man of firm, upright principles, and won the confidence and respect of all who knew him. He was an exemplary member of the Lutheran church. Mr. Cornell died Feb. 16, 1882. Mrs. Cornell resides on the old homestead. Of the seven children born to them, five are living—W. H. H., Benjamin F., Sebastian H., Winfield S. and Ellen V., wife of Stephen Surfs. Two sons were soldiers in the war of the Rebellion—W. H. H. and Benjamin F. Both enlisted in Company K, Forty-fourth Indiana Infantry. At Shiloh Benjamin received a slight wound, and at Mission Ridge a severe one. He was veteranized and served till the close of the war.

W. H. H. Cornell, son of William and Mary M. Cornell, was born in Maryland in 1840, and was ten years of age when his parents moved to Indiana, and has helped to bring Butler Township to its present state of cultivated farms from a state of timber and wild land. He now owns a good farm of forty acres, all well improved. In 1861 he enlisted in Company K, Forty-fourth Indiana Infantry, and was soon sent to the front. He participated in the battles of Shiloh and siege of Corinth, Perryville, Stone River, and others of less note. He served three years, receiving an honorable discharge. Mr. Cornell was married in 1870 to Eliza Timberlain, daughter of Isaac Timberlain, an old settler of Butler Township. They have two children—Perry B. and Jesse O. In his political views Mr. Cornell adheres to the faith of his father, and is a staunch Republican. He has served as Constable of his township a year and a half. He and his wife are members of the Methodist Episcopal church.

D. W. Fair, the eldest son and second child of Abraham and Christena (DeLong) Fair, was born in Butler Township, DeKalb County, Ind., Aug. 9, 1838. His boyhood was passed on the farm, where he early learned the practical part of agriculture. He obtained a good education in the district school, and after leaving school assisted his father till twenty-three years of age, when Nov. 20, 1861, he was married to Irene Perry, who was born in Noble County, Ind., Oct. 6, 1841, a daughter of Oliver and Mary (Francis) Perry. After his marriage he settled on the farm where he has since resided, which contains ninety-two acres of choice land, the greater part of which he has cleared and improved. He has been successful, and has won the confidence of his fellow-townsmen, and by them has been elected to several offices of trust. He now has a pleasant home where he has lived forty-four years, and from a wilderness has seen the country develop into farms and villages. He added to his first purchase till he owned 230 acres, but has reduced his farm to 150 acres. He is purely a self-made man, and has made the greater part of his money in De Kalb County, having but about $200 when he first came to Indiana. Here he lived the rest of his life, and by industry and judicious management, assisted by his wife and children, was successful, and at the time of his death had one of the best farms in the township. In his political views he was first a Whig and then a Republican. Although a strong supporter of his party he had no aspirations for official honors. Their boyhood was spent in Columbiana County, Ohio, where their parents located in the early settlement of the county. There they grew to manhood, having only such educational advantages as the early schools afforded. In 1851 they came together to Indiana and settled in Butler Township, De Kalb County, purchasing eighty acres of wild land. They erected a log cabin and began clearing their land. Here Isaac lived till his death and David still lives. Isaac was married in Ohio to Elizabeth Sheets, and to them were born eight children, seven of whom are living—Hannah, Mary, Eliza, Silas, David, Elizabeth and Rebecca. One died in infancy. The Eighty-eighth Indiana Volunteer Infantry was rendezvoused at Fort Wayne, Indiana, mustered in on August 29, 1862, with George Humphrey as colonel. Immediately the regiment was ordered to Louisville to defend that city against the supposed advance of General Kirby Smith. The regiment next was assigned to the Seventeenth brigade, Rousseau's division, and marched in pursuit of Bragg. At Perryville the regiment won their colors by meritorious conduct and underwent heavy losses. The regiment moved with Rosecrans' army in the campaign against Murfreesboro, culminating in the battle of Stone's River. Fifty-six men were lost in this latter engagement. The regiment next, as a part of the Army of the Cumberland, went through middle Tennessee, participating in the battles of Hoover's Gap, Tullahoma, Hillsboro and Elk River. On September 19 and 20, 1863, the regiment took part in the bloody engagement at Chickamauga, being on the first day in the vicinity of Glass Mill, where, with its brigade, it supported Bridge's and a part of Shultz's batteries in an engagement with the enemy. In the evening it moved to the Brotherton place and bivouacked. On Sunday morning, September 20, it moved to position on the west side of the Lafayette and Chattanooga road, south of the McDonald house, where its brigade, being assailed by the brigades of Adams and Stovall, was broken, and the regiment forced southwestward toward Snodgrass Hill. It there took position in support of General Negley's artillery, and afterward accompanied this officer to Rossville. With Hooker, on the night of November 24, this regiment took part in the scaling of Lookout Mountain and the "Battle Among the Clouds." On the 25th it was in the charge on Missionary Ridge. Later the men fought at Graysville and Ringgold, Georgia. When Sherman started his campaign against Atlanta this regiment was a part of the troops and was notably engaged at Buzzard Roost, Resaca, Dallas, Kenesaw, Peach Tree Creek, Atlanta and Utoy Creek. The regiment continued with Sherman's long campaign, performing well the various duties imposed; it fought at the bloody conflict of Bentonville on March 19, 1865. After the surrender of the Confederate armies the regiment was transported to Washington, D. C., and marched in the grand review at that place. The regiment was mustered out on June 7, 1865.

The Forty-fourth Indiana Volunteer Infantry was organized at Fort Wayne and was mustered in on October 24, 1861, with Hugh B. Reed as colonel. In December it was sent to Henderson, Kentucky, and reported to Gen. Thomas L. Crittenden, and by him assigned to Cruft's brigade. The regiment participated in the siege of Fort Donelson, where it suffered heavy loss. It was engaged both days at Shiloh, losing thirty-three killed and one hundred and seventy-seven wounded. The Confederate general, Albert Sidney Johnson, was killed in front of this regiment at Shiloh. The regiment next marched to Corinth, participated in Buell's pursuit of Bragg, engaging in the conflict at Perryville. Returning with the army through Kentucky, it again marched into Tennessee and was in the battle of Silver Spring. When the Army of the Cumberland entered upon the Murfreesboro campaign, under Rosecrans, this regiment participated in the battle of Stone's River, losing heavily. This was on December 31, 1862, and January 1, 2 and 3, 1863. The regiment was actively engaged in the battle at Chickamauga. On the afternoon of the first day in this battle, the regiment supported Wilder's brigade; on the second day, after having assisted in meeting one of the severest charges of Stewart's divisions, the regiment retired and held off the enemy until four o'clock, when a flanking movement compelled their further retirement. On the third and last day the regiment fought in line with its division until the break in the center of the Union lines, when it repaired to Thomas' line and fought against Harker's brigade until ordered from the field at five o'clock. Later it engaged at Missionary Ridge. In October, 1863, the regiment was assigned to provost duty, re-enlisting as veterans. On September 14, 1865, the regiment was mustered out. During the war the regiment lost by death, wounds and disease, four hundred and eight men.

Surname: FUNK, DRUCKENMILLER, SHOWALTER, MILLER

This is part of the Eckhart Public Library 1860's project

In place of an official obituary we use the following information. The Showalter cemetery has been plowed up.

"Brother in law - I will take the opportunity to write you a few lines. You will know that we are well except my wife and your father is ailing. You know that we have read your letter that you have wrote to your brother Jacob and sense there in that you desired a better information of your mother's last days. She took sick with the 'dropsy' at her heart on what the doctor calls asthma. It commenced on here somewhere about the first of April, 1861. And there was three different physician doctors at her, three of them would not promise to help her any further then to give her relief, the other doctor still thought he could help her further and did help her the best of any one of them; but could not keep her from dying which happened on February 13th, 1862. She was born 1792, April the 15th. She was buried n John SHOWALTER'S place." (Name of mother was Maria DRUCKENMILLER FUNK. The above is from a letter written by Daniel MILLER to Daniel FUNK).

A letter from Jacob FUNK to son Daniel regarding the death of his mother Maria. "I tried three doctors and was going to send for the fourth doctor but she did not live so long. The disease that she was troubled with is a disease that worked on her breast. She was suffering on the account of breathing. We had to open the door often in order to get her breath. She hasn't been out of her room for about ten weeks. She was not any further than from the bed to the stove in that time and could not lay long that she had to get up to get her breath. When she months she suffered. Painful day and night up to the end. She is buried on the John ~~SHOWALTER~~ Farm where Joseph SHOWALTERS child is buried. Further there were three preachers at her funeral. But I went with J. CATHER. There was a Preacher THOMAS, he preached to. But the Funeral was preached by CATHER, he took his text in the Book of Job in 14 chapter and 14 verse." Letter was addressed from Norristown in 1862.
